

Nicole is an MD, pianist and vocal coach specialising in musical theatre and classical art song. She studied at Trinity Laban Conservatoire of Music and Dance (BMus) and the Guildhall School of Music and Drama (MPerf), where she gained first class honours and distinction respectively.

Since graduating, Nicole has worked as a vocal coach at London Studio Centre and as a staff accompanist at the Guildhall School. As a freelance MD, recent highlights include 'Battle of the West End' residency at infamous cabaret venue, Crazy Coqs, and working with classical mezzo, Emily Gray, on an album of English song. She is available as an MD/pianist/vocal coach/accompanist for shows, recitals, cabarets, auditions and one-off coaching sessions.
